WE ARE LOOKING FOR:

We are at the moment hiring a team of commentators and video producers in 16 different languages for the 2010 World Cup in South Africa. The team will be traveling from Munich to South Africa on June 3rd, 2010 and will be returning to Munich the latest on July 13th, 2010. The team will be responsible for producing 2-minute video commentaries for mobile phones for the FIFA at the IBC (International Broadcast Center) in Johannesburg.

To be part of this team, here are the main points to fulfill:

- enthusiastic and up-to-date football (soccer) fan
- native Japanese speaker
- Candidates must have produced sport videos before.
- Candidates must have produced "stories" and this means news.. Everyday the co-ordinating producers will be asking them about the different items they have on their list. These will be stories with an angle and they must all be different from each other.
- Candidates must have written a script before. If the VO personnel have to know how to translate a script, then the Producers need to know how to write one from scratch!
